

Pierre Du Moulin
translated by Hamon L'Estrange

HERACLITUS or Man's Looking-glass and Survey of Life

Read by InTheDesert for LibriVox

Heracilitus, or Man's Looking-glass and Survey of Life

Heraclitus, or Man's Looking-glass and Survey of Life
Pierre Du Moulin
Translated by Hamon L'Estrange

This book is no other than a perfect map of man and anatomy of all ages; A "nosce te ipsum", which is the highest pitch and hardest lesson of all human learning; An universal dial which (though made in France) yet serves (without any astronomical reduction) for all meridians, and shows how the minutes of man's life pass away from the first rising to the last setting thereof, and even from Solomon upon his golden throne, to Job scraping himself with potsherds upon the ash-heap; for what man is he that shall not see death? (as David said it, and saw it) and after that comes judgment to heaven or hell for ever. (Summary adapted from translator's preface)

Read by InTheDesert. 5 Tracks. Total Duration: 01:17:04

This recording is in the public domain and may be reproduced, distributed, or modified without permission. For more information or to volunteer, visit librivox.org.

Cover image: Table mirror (1905) by Louis Comfort Tiffany. Copyright expired in U.S., Canada, EU, and all countries with author's life +70 yrs laws. Cover design by TriciaG. This design is in the public domain.

Heracilitus, or Man's Looking-glass and Survey of Life